

Northeast Bank Supports Junior Achievement's Youth Economic Development Program

Lewiston and Augusta, MAINE (February 11, 2011) – In the effort to support financial education and its commitment to corporate social responsibility, Northeast Bank has donated $1000 to Junior Achievement, a program designed to educate children K-12 on entrepreneurship, wealth management, and economics.

This donation will be used to fund some of the 3rd and 4th grade programs in Kennebec County which include volunteer training and classroom materials. The 3rd and 4th grade programs from Junior Achievement focus on subjects like city planning, city zoning as it relates to business, how to write a check and keep a register, regional economic resources, job planning, and profit/loss concepts as it relates to owning a business.

"Our 3rd and 4th grade programs are very popular with the kids. We use a lot of interactive techniques and games to help them understand business and planning concepts and they are like sponges the way they soak up the information," says Jill Jamison, of Junior Achievement.

"We are glad to support the Junior Achievement program's efforts in helping Maine kids," says Jim Delamater, President of Northeast Bank. "Educating children about business and entrepreneurial thinking is so essential in today's market and for their future success in the working world."
